Our Sunday Visitor is going back to its roots.

A beloved publication for more than a century, Our Sunday Visitor is returning to the name originally bestowed upon it by founder Father John Francis Noll.

At this challenging time for the Church, Our Sunday Visitor is here to speak the truth, through charity, in a way that seeks to heal divisions in our polarized world. Our Sunday Visitor continues to be the trusted voice in the Church that readers have come to know and respect over the past century.

Along with a return to its original name, Our Sunday Visitor will offer increased commentary and analysis from our editorial board and seasoned staff, all in an updated design that presents a more modern, yet still traditional, look. Our Sunday Visitor's website will offer even more content for Catholics seeking to grow in knowledge and love of their faith.

"For more than 100 years, Our Sunday Visitor has been a highly respected voice not only in Catholic media, but in national media," said Gretchen R. Crowe, editorial director. "Our Sunday Visitor rises above political divisions to present the Catholic Faith in its fullness. Our goal is to bring our readers to the truth, to form them in their faith and to give them a wholly Catholic perspective on the issues that matter the most."

"Father Noll founded Our Sunday Visitor to draw Catholics more deeply into their Faith and to help them defend the truths that the Church teaches," said Scott P. Richert, publisher. "Today, when both the Church and truth itself are under attack, this renewed vision for Our Sunday Visitor will provide the resources that Catholics in the United States need to feed the fire of their own faith and to spread the Gospel of Christ to a world in need of the truth."
